	We're in Business: Art, Trade & Business of West Green Road - the Windrush Generation's Legacy
Time:	Museum opening times: Wednesday - Sunday, 1 to 5pm
Place:	Bruce Castle Museum & Archive Lordship Lane N17 8NU
Price:	Free
Event Description:	Explore the pioneering businesses, entrepreneurs, and artists of the Windrush Generation in West Green Road in Tottenham. This street has witnessed many important trailblazers and change-makers who, rooted in their communities, went on to succeed in building some of the most successful black enterprises in this country. From Dyke & Dryden's beauty and hair products, becoming Britain's first black multi-million-pound business, to Althea McNish, the internationally-renowned textile designer and artist who made West Green Road her home for over 60 years, you can find out more about the stories of these pioneers and others – all starting out and finding their feet in West Green Road. This exhibition shares these histories and stories from West Green Road, looking at objects, photographs, and documents from the collections of Bruce Castle Museum & Archive. It also shows in public for the first time personal items and works from the amazing art studio of textile designer Althea McNish, very kindly on loan from The N15 Archive, alongside new artwork created for the exhibition by local artist and architect Tania Pascoal.
Booking information:	All welcome. No need to book for general visits to Museum. For further information or advice please email museum.services@haringey.gov.uk or telephone 020 8489 4250, or see www.brucecastle.org

Event Name:	Black History Tour with Avril Nanton: West Green Road Legacy Walk
Time:	11am
Place:	Start: Meet at 11am outside Costa Coffee, 261 Tottenham High Road, N15 4RR by the junction of Tottenham High Road/West Green Road, near Seven Sisters tube station. Ends: At Bruce Castle Museum & Archive, Lordship Lane, Tottenham N17 8NU
Price:	Free
Event Description:	Take a walk with tour guide Avril Nanton and explore the history of this well-known road in Tottenham. With Avril you will discover more about pioneering trailblazers Dyke & Dryden and their beauty and hair products, Bernie Grant MP for Tottenham, and internationally renowned textile designer Althea McNish - and where they started their businesses, established their workplaces, or set up home. Heavily influenced by the large African and Caribbean population, most people are not aware of the famous people who have lived in this street, making important contributions to the area and to Black British history in general. Starting outside Costa Coffee and finishing at Black Boy Lane, this walk will take in some of the well-known shops past and present along West Green Road, including Uncle John's Bakery and Bodies Music, some of the 20 Black hair and beauty shops that line the street, as well as stopping by the lesser-known Windrush monument, and, not forgetting, the home of textile designer Althea McNish, the woman who designed for the Queen.

	This special free walk is organised by and accompanies the current exhibition 'We're In Business' at Bruce Castle Museum & Archive (museum.services@haringey.gov.uk ; www.brucecastle.org)

The evening will include author readings and book signings. Breaking the Maafa Chain chronicles two sisters' struggle for true freedom in the mid-nineteenth century, when transporting slaves from Africa to America was an illegal but lucrative business Nineteenth century—Two sisters, Fatmata and Salimatu, are captured and sold separately into slavery. Forced to change their names to Faith and Sarah, they end up in two different countries with opposite slavery laws. Faith ends up in America, where slavery is still legal and enslaved people don't have any rights. Sarah ends up in Victorian England, as the goddaughter of Queen Victoria. Can the two sisters reclaim their freedom and identity in a world that is trying to break them down and mould them to its coloniser's will? Based on the true story of Sarah Forbes Bonetta, Breaking the Maafa Chain will take the readers on a journey of loss, survival, hope, identity and tradition.
